79% of executives/leaders are more concerned about employee or student safety than they were two years ago.

39% do not have a communications plan for active shooter events. 61% do not run any active shooter preparedness drills at all.

69% view an active shooter incident as a potential top threat to their organization. 67% of nearly 1,000 large corporation security leaders surveyed named active shooter as a top threat.

Workplace violence was cited as a top threat by 62%. 71% said communication with impacted people was seen as the biggest challenge during an active shooter situation.

79% of executives/leaders are more concerned about employee or student safety than they were two years ago. 73% said that employees or students are willing to exchange some aspects of privacy for enhanced security.

BE ACTIVE SHOOTER READY.

GROWING SAFETY CONCERNS:

However...

ARE YOU READY?

Take the Active Shooter preparedness assessment: everbridge.com/ActiveShooter